For years I was held in a tiny cell. My only human contact was with my tortures. For two and a half of those years I did not experience the glance of a human face, see a green leaf. My only company was cockroaches and mice. The only daylight that entered my cell was through a small opening at the top of one wall. For eight months I had my hands and feet tied. In December, the door to my cell opened and the guard tossed on a crumpled piece of paper. I moved as best I could to pick up the paper. It said simply 'Constantino, do not be discouraged; we know you are alive. 'It was signed 'Monica' and had the Amnesty International logo on it. Those words saved my life and sanity. Eight months later I was set free.

Dear Deli,

On Saturday, I went to Mount Bromo. I stayed at Nina and Ashman's house at Cemara Lawang, Probolinggo. It has a big garden with lots of colourful flowers and a fish pond.

On Sunday, Nina and I saw Gunung Batok and went on the scenic ride on horseback. It was scary. Then we went to get a closer to look at the mountain. We took pictures of the beautiful sceneries there.

On Monday, we went to the zoo at Wonokromo. We saw cockatoos having a shower. In the afternoon I went home. It was fun.

Love, Dini

Last weekend the girl scouts and the boy scouts of my school had their first fun camping outside the school. They left for kampong Cikoneng at 05. 00 am. After a long and thrilling drive they arrived at the village and found a good camping site.

"Let's set up our tents there," said the leader while pointing at the garden. Then, they started to work. In a short time the tents were ready and they put a small flag on the top of each tent. After that, some girl scouts made a fire while some others cooked their lunch. The boys were busy working. The lunch was ready at 03.00 and they immediately started to eat. After that, they took a little rest.

At 04.30 pm the leader blew his whistle and all the girl scouts and the boy scouts gathered around to start their fun camping programs.

The scouts set their tents up....

Select one:

- on the mountain
- in the valley
- in the city park
