Dear Deli,

On Saturday, I went to Mount Bromo. I stayed at Nina and Ashman's house at Cemara Lawang, Probolinggo. It has a big garden with lots of colourful flowers and a fish pond.

On Sunday, Nina and I saw Gunung Batok and went on the scenic ride on horseback. It was scary. Then we went to get a closer to look at the mountain. We took pictures of the beautiful sceneries there.

On Monday, we went to the zoo at Wonokromo. We saw cockatoos having a shower. In the afternoon I went home. It was fun.

Love, Dini

For years I was held in a tiny cell. My only human contact was with my tortures. For two and a half of those years I did not experience the glance of a human face, see a green leaf. My only company was cockroaches and mice. The only daylight that entered my cell was through a small opening at the top of one wall. For eight months I had my hands and feet tied. In December, the door to my cell opened and the guard tossed on a crumpled piece of paper. I moved as best I could to pick up the paper. It said simply 'Constantino, do not be discouraged; we know you are alive. 'It was signed 'Monica' and had the Amnesty International logo on it. Those words saved my life and sanity. Eight months later I was set free.

On Saturday night, we went to the Town Hall. It was the last day of the year and a large crowd of people had gathered under the Town Hall clock. It would strike twelve in twenty minutes' time. Fifteen minutes passed and then, at five to twelve, the clock stopped. The big minute hand did not move. We waited and waited, but nothing happened. Suddenly someone shouted, "It's two minutes past twelve! The clock has stopped!" I looked at my watch. It was true. The big clock refused to welcome the New Year. At that moment, everybody began to laugh and sing.

What probably happened when someone shouted that the clock stopped?

Select one:

- Everybody looked for a watch
- Everybody directly celebrated the New Year
- Everybody sings and laugh
- Everybody see the fireworks
- Everybody shouted too
